“ God has you in his arms. I have you in my memory. Never thought the last piece of cake I received from you would be the last time. Rest on Anthony no more pain. Diane Hemingway.

“ A Quiet, Lasting Friendship, Some friendship do not need big words or grand gestures they just are. You were that kind of friend. Steady. True. Present. We laughed without reason, sat in silence without discomfort and found comfort in just being near. Losing you leaves an ache. But more than anything, it leaves a deep, quiet gratitude for a friendship so rare and real. I will carry you with me in memory, in spirit Always. Even in your absence, your kindness remains. Your laughter lingers. And your Friendship lives on in the quiet corner of my heart. You will be missed deeply. “A Friend loves at all times.” Proverbs 17:17.

“ Dad,
 Although your siblings think you didnt know me or I didnt know you I love the relationship we formed. I thank you for making it right! The 2 people you warned me about proved to be just who you said they are. I came to make arrangements with what you left and that was not good enough and here we are. I thank you for loving me. I have chosen to remove myself from the equation and will not be a part of this because This was not your plans.I love you dad and I pray God heal this family where its needed!

Hiding your keys under you is diabolical dad but I did not let them in your house and I cleaned up after myself and gave as you wished.

“ My friend for life. My husband I miss you. You will always hold that special place in my life. The many years we shared, the laughter and the tears. I did not know that when I spoke to you on Sunday it would have been our last conversation. Your memories will live forever. God saw you were tired. He could feel your pain. He has taken you home to rest in His arms. Rest well my love.
