“ My last memories of Uncle Neville was when he visited for Grampa's funeral. That a group of us went to the nearby river to take a bath before the service. I remembered us boys debating about how cold the water would be, looking around for other options than to go into the river with him. He laughed about it, asked if we scared of the cold water, and encouraged us to jump in, reminiscing about his childhood days and how often he took a bathe at the very spot. That was an good experience with him for me.

“ Dad was a great cook but often tend to heat up everything together in one pot or made some crazy concoctions that no one else would dare to eat other than his sister Norma. ❤️❤️
