“ Thomas, where do I even begin? From when we first met in Madrid you have always listen up the room with your contagious smile, exuberant laugh, beautifully crafted words of wisdom you conjured up when I'd least expect it but often when I most needed them. You got me through the pandemic as my workout partner as we connected on Zoom calls to do workout videos together. You go me through Madrid as my homie, always there to listen, give advice, and have a good time while doing it.

I still feel numb, trying to take every day, little by little, step by step, to accept that you are no longer here with us in the physical world. I spoke to your mom and sister yesterday, and I felt so honored to meet some of the lovely women that help raised to be the strong man you became. So emphatic...so vulnerable,..and so strong with the will power of an ox and the heart of a dove. You will forever live long in my heart my good friend. I will miss our profound chats where we reflected about life, planned for our respective futures, and simply enjoyed a laugh about my the next disastrous date.

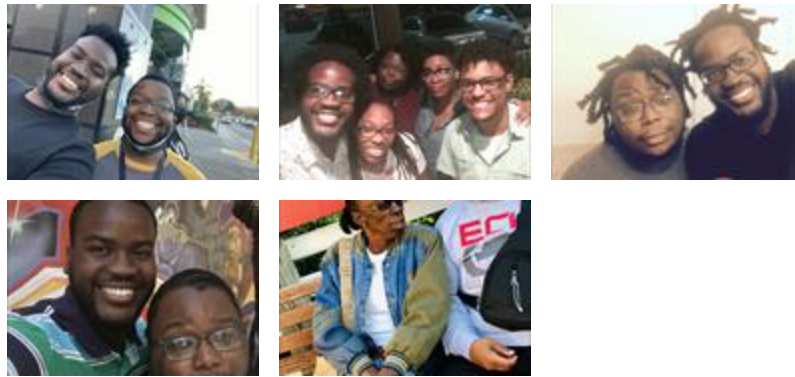

I will continue to remember to remember that contagious smile, exuberant laugh, and those beautifully crafted. Miss you...love you dear friend.

“ I will never be able to find the right words to say about your sudden death. Still in shock about your unpredictable passing. We had a truly special friendship that could only made sense for the two of us. I can't thank you enough for the countless amount of times you have been a best friend to me. Thank you for the infinite memories. A part of me is gone with you not being there. I will forever cherish the unique memories we've created.

“ Thomas brought so much sunshine to those around him. His laugh and smile would positively light up a room. Some of my most favorite memories of travel were with Thomas as we spent a year learning and growing in Spain. We started our educational careers about the same time, and were kindred spirits who have Jean to thank for our friendship. This world, his friends, family and students will greatly miss him, but his laughter will ring out in our hearts and memories forever.

“ There are not enough words to express what Thomas meant to me and to so many people. Everywhere he went his personality beamed just like his smile. His laughter and kind spirit made you feel so welcomed. He was thoughtful, caring, loveable but he knew how to be honest and tell you wrong from right. I have never had a friend that made me feel so loved and I will cherish all the moments we had together.

“ The world has lost some of its color without you and your laugh in it. You are so very missed. Thank you for being my friend, dancing with me, eating gummies from the corner store on cold nights in, listening to me, cuddling with me at the bus stops to keep warm, and giving me some of the best life advice I ever received (and still live by). Until we meet again, my friend. ❤️

“ There's is nothing I can say that you didn't already know. You were the glue that kept us together. You were the laughter we thrived off of. Omg, your laugh was infectious. I never thought I would lose this early. You were my twin, my heart, my partner in crime. Without you, I don't who I am. I love you lil nro. I always will. And I promise to live my life to make you proud. Until we meet again, please watch over me and the boys!
