“ We love sis Sarjeant and she will always be remembered. The way she laughs, the way she cannot hide what she is thinking. The way she loves. May she rest in peace.

“ I thank God for bringing sis Sarjeant into my life. I found her when I moved to Hempstead in 1993 and walked the church where she was the clerk. In her I found a sister, a co-laborer in the church, but even more I found a mom and a grandmother for my girls. She held keys and alarm codes to my home and she was always there when I couldn't be there. She helped me care for my autistic daughter. We had a special friendship and it was easy to see. All my relatives and church family referred to her as “my friend”. My daughter and I will miss our sis Sarjeant. I thank God for the hope that we will be reunited again. So, please, even so, come Lord Jesus. May God continue to be with her family and give the comfort that's needed at this time. 🙏🙏💔💔💔💔💔 From Sis Edwards and Kyla

“ A life well lived
For 87 years an evening star pushed back the dark world of night with light and joy and radiance. Evening stars are not always with us, but we love it when they are. For now this evening star had set, but soon in the order of things it will rise again, with the bright and Morning Star, this time never to fade, never again to set, but to shine for eternity, so until then sleep on sis. Velma and take your rest .

My dear cousin. You have fought a good fight. You have won the race. Your eyes have remained steadfast on the prize. Rest in peace cousin. I will always remember you, Winifred.
